I think any rezoning of this property should include an exception for the little brick house that was a one-room schoolhouse. This is an historic building and should be preserved. Delaware is loosing its identity as so much property is being developed and the only protection seems to be in the downtown area. Historic farms and homes are being threatened by roundabouts, new roads and subdivisions. There seems to be no concern for these historic home and buildings and very little regard for green spaces as the density is too high. Thank you.
